

[illegible][illegible]

After I had satisfied her she was perfectly free to go where she liked. I asked her to sit down while I dealt with another case. At all times she gave a sign and asked me to call much money for me. And I believe she really thought the whole proceeding was perfectly immoral, that I was teaching her to break a bargain, and with very little persuasion she was ready to leave me. I have no doubt that she was a rascal. I have no doubt that there are a good many rascals of that ilk in the Bill that will have to be looked into in committee, but what I would like the Council now to do is to get the principle of the Bill right, and then to let the Bill or the Bill or at least the absolute necessity for this Government doing something to remove what I conceive to be an indelible blot on our law, and a reflection on our honor. I think that the Bill should be the Registrar-General, and any other officer who should look after this matter, I am perfectly convinced from what I have seen, and from many conversations with the Registrar-General, that the Registrar-General is the only officer who could deal with this. What I want to be done must be done promptly. In the first place, for instance, the case where I found four young girls, the case where I found a woman who said that woman to come to my office with the Inspector of Police, if she had had the slightest idea of what was going to be done, and all the girls would have been sent to the Registrar-General. The Registrar-General has such machinery at his disposal that he can once enter these investigations, and if he can provide that he be assisted by the Po. Leu. Fak, the Chinese, the Registrar-General, and the Registrar-General, I think that they will at any time once lay aside their business and come and give their assistance. As far as I am personally concerned I would be glad to see the Registrar-General, and I think that I shall not shrink from any duty in the future any more than I have done in the past. It is really heart-breaking to see the way fellow creatures are treated, and to see the inferior animals, and degraded, and to see a life of misery.

HON. P. MACWEN—Object to what has just been proposed by the hon. member. If he wants or desires to consent to the principle of the Bill, he must give his consent to the Registrar-General, and not to the Registrar-General. It is a retrograde movement. The power was taken from the Registrar-General years ago and now we are going back. It is a retrograde movement. The Registrar-General is not in the colony, and I object to an attempt to force it through this Council. It is an attempt to force it through. Let it be properly considered. I object to this.

HON. P. MACWEN—I agree to a certain extent with the remarks of my hon. friend opposite, and before the Bill is read a second time, I would move for the whole correspondence on the subject and the Registrar-General, and the Registrar-General. The Registrar-General has been sent home. I would also ask the Secretary of State approved of the first reading of the Bill? Has he seen it?

THE ACTING COLONIAL SECRETARY—The Bill is not in the hands of the Registrar-General. I have forwarded it. That has been under his consideration. This Bill is simply an extension of the one, and this Bill has not been seen.

HON. P. MACWEN—Will you understand the Registrar-General, the Bill?

HON. P. BRATON—That children should be protected, I suppose, but not by the Registrar-General.

HON. P. MACWEN—Is it that happy of the principle of this Bill, or simply that some change should be made in the law?

THE ACTING COLONIAL SECRETARY—It is a question of these recommendations of Mr. Russell. I have said and asks that power be given to carry them into effect, and the draft Bill, which this is simply an extension, gives effect to these recommendations.

HON. P. MACWEN—I think it most desirable Bills should be sent home until they have been discussed in this Council.

HIS EXCELLENCY—You have an opportunity of discussing it now.

HON. P. MACWEN—As I understand it, the Secretary of State has already approved of it.

HIS EXCELLENCY—Approved of the principle of the Bill, because he has not seen it.

FRANCE AND THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.
PARIS, 23rd October. The Egyptian question continues to be the chief topic of the day in France. The French Government have decided to continue in the same manner, that the British should occupy Egypt, and are urging Mr. de Freycinet press England in the matter.
A private telegram, dated London 22nd October, to the Pioneer, states that the Standard says that the reports from the French Ambassador and Navy authorities have been laid before the Foreign Office with a view to obtaining sharp war with England to compel withdrawal from Egypt, and the argument is that England is so unprepared that the French fleet will arrive off Alexandria with sufficient guns to capture British forces in Egypt. Turkey and Russia, it is said, already approve, while M. Herbet Mission to Berlin is intended to obtain P. Bismarck's sanction. The Standard gives details, and the stock market is somewhat depressed.
BERLIN, 24th October. M. Herbet, the new French Ambassador at the Court of Berlin, has been received by Emperor William. It is believed that his mission is to negotiate German and England.
AFFAIRS IN BULGARIA.
SOFIA, 23rd October. A circular issued by the Bulgarian Government to the Powers notifies that the Grand vizier will meet at Tirnova on the 1st proximo after verifying the elections will elect Prince.
SOFIA, 24th October. The Bulgarian Government has migrated to Tirnova.

THE BETTING ON THE CAMBRIDGE RACES.
The following is the latest betting on the Cambridge races:—4 to 1 against Carlton; against Silver; 11 to 1 against Tyrone, a to Luganist Sailor Lord, Harpenden, Honors St. Martin.
THE VACANT COMMAND.
BOMBAY, 23rd October. The Bombay correspondent of the Times writes that the Government intend to remove Sir Frederick Roberts from his long time post-head-quarters. In military circles opinion inclines to the appointment of Sir C. Arbuthnot to the command of the 2nd Division, and Sir H. D. D. Duke of Connaught to the bay command.
The prevalent belief in Simla is that General Roberts will assume the Command in Burma.
THE PACIFIC COAST OF AMERICA.
MANDALAY, 23rd October. Government are engaged in active negotiations with the Shan Chiefs, with a view to their coming to the assistance of the Government is not proposed to interfere actively in the case of the Shan States, but Mr. R. H. Philson leave Mandalay on an early date, accompanied a strong escort, to act as Commissioner of the Shan States.
Late Sir Herbert MacPherson had made arrangements to establish several others.
MINTRA, 23rd October.
It is believed that the Shan King, Nya-Nya, a place about 35 miles west of Mintra, on the Shoo-Yee-Daw-Mah river flows into the Irrawaddy some three miles above its mouth. The Shan King has given him his own means of escape to the Yoma Hills, which command the road, via Narathung through the Kong Pass, into Taunggyin. He has forty miles North-West of Mintra, although the distance is very mountainous difficult.
MANDALAY, 24th October.
Mandalay town is in good order. Eight companies of British troops are now quartered in the district during the week by Shans. Bhagat Katha are undisturbed. Troops and cavalry have marched over routes from Kyaukse Sagadong on the route to the Ruby Mountains. Two divisions of British troops are in South-east of Salwa district. A new one is being established at Kanaba north of Salwa. Ava is quiet and Kyaukse also is in good order. Two divisions of British troops are in the district village of Fedaw and four districts. Sigaing is still much disturbed by Hla U and Min O. Paga village by Myina was deserted during the week. The district of Salwa is still much disturbed. Ye-U. Moiktha district is quiet. Ningyay Yamethin districts are still much disturbed.
MANDALAY, 24th October.
The expedition under command of Colonel Burnett, which was sent to make reconnaissance towards the Ruby Mines, returned to Kyaukse today. It penetrated to Sagadong, where it is situated. The expedition is expected to be forty miles further. The tribes friendly aid offered no opposition. The country through which the expedition passed is open jungle. Another expedition is expected near Mandalay. Expedition for Mogot is set on early in November.
The Burmese officials at Bhamo are unusually busy, and lengthy trainees is expected in the near future.
The system of sending out large flying columns has been abandoned as useless.
